

THE ROLE OF
THE HOLY SPIRIT IN LIVING THE DAYS OF HEAVEN ON EARTH
By Pastor Stephen Olusa

2026: OUR YEAR OF FRUITFUL LABOUR | 2 Chronicles 15: 7

- When God proclaims that our best days are here, He expects us to embody that word and manifest its reality so much that others will be compelled to declare, “Surely, the Lord has spoken.”
- God's word will always come to pass. The issue is not the certainty of its fulfilment; it is whether we become the evidence of it or not.
- Divine proclamations create seasons. In Exodus 12:1-2, God set aside Israel's old calendar and established a new one by His word. Such is the power of God's proclamation – it resets timelines and inaugurates new beginnings.
- By God's proclamation, the nation and the land of Canaan moved from seven powerful and mighty nations to a tiny nation called Israel (Genesis 17:8). God's declarations are not empty words.
- Before God places an inheritance in your hand, He places a vision of it in your heart. What you cannot see, you cannot possess.
- Many people fight the very blessings they pray for because they do not recognise them when they come (Luke 19:41-42).
- It is possible to stand face-to-face with what you have been believing God for and still miss it. Recognition is often the bridge between God's provision and your possession.
- When God declares that our best days are here, He is speaking of heaven on earth. He defines the promise Himself, lest our limited imagination reduce the greatness of His intention (Deuteronomy 11:21).

- What Israel experienced in Goshen was only a foretaste of what God could do. It was a prophetic preview of a greater season to come; beyond anything they had known in Egypt (Deuteronomy 11:10-21).
- God is transitioning His people from cultivating vegetables for survival to possessing vineyards, grain fields, wine, and oil—a shift from mere provision to covenant abundance.
- A vegetable garden sustains a season, but a vineyard builds a legacy. It endures across generations, continually producing fruit and wealth for those who inherit it.
- The destination God has declared for us is one of m u l t i d i m e n s i o n a l provision – grain for sustenance, wine for joy, and nourishment for the inner life.

- Where God's wine abounds, despair loses its grip. Wine speaks of joy and inner wholeness, while oil speaks of healing, health, and vitality – hallmarks of heaven on earth (Luke 10:33-34, James 5:14-15, Psalm 104:13-15).
- Because God is upgrading us, we cannot remain attached to what once seemed good enough (Numbers 11:4-5).

God's agent for bringing the days of heaven on earth is the Holy Spirit (Ephesians 3:14-21, Matthew 12:28, Luke 11:11-13). He enables believers to live in the reality of God's kingdom.

- The days of heaven on earth describe a season where God's attention rests on His people, and those who fear Him experience answered prayers (1 Peter 3:12).

- We are stepping out of a season of unanswered prayers into the reality of divine response – where God answers before we call (Isaiah 65:24).
- This is a season of transgenerational increase. God's work through us is not for personal gain but for generational inheritance. He is calling us to live beyond self into legacy (Numbers 11:20-21).
- God is taking us to a place of perpetual victory (Numbers 11:24, 2 Corinthians 2:14). We are more than conquerors. Defeat may appear, but it will not be a reality in our lives.
- We often say God will have the last laugh in our challenges, but Scripture reveals something deeper: God is not waiting for the last laugh – He is the One who reigns over all outcomes (Psalm 2:4; 37:13-15, Isaiah 46:10).

- God's agent for bringing the days of heaven on earth is the Holy Spirit (Ephesians 3:14-21, Matthew 12:28, Luke 11:11-13). He enables believers to live in the reality of God's kingdom.
- Without the Holy Spirit and His active work in a person or community, the days of heaven on earth cannot be experienced.
- The Holy Spirit works in our inner man to create the capacity for Christ to dwell in us by faith.
- The Holy Spirit brings the resources of heaven with Him – He is heaven's appointed steward of divine supply.
- The greatest gift is the Holy Spirit. In Him, God has packaged every spiritual blessing in Christ in heavenly places. This is why the prosperity of the righteous differs from that of the wicked (Psalm 73:3-17).

- Without the Holy Spirit, we cannot enjoy the days of heaven on the earth (Acts 1:8; 2:1-8).
- If there is light and sound, there must be presence. Without the presence of the Holy Spirit, everything else is empty (1 Kings 19:11-13).
- The presence of God is what makes the difference, and the Holy Spirit is the One who brings it. The days of heaven on earth cannot be experienced without Him.
- The Holy Spirit introduces the power of God into hopeless situations. Scripture describes Him as the power of the age to come (Hebrews 6:4-6).
- The Holy Spirit brings the power of the age to come into the present, enabling us to experience now what others expect only in heaven.

PRAYER POINTS

1. Father, make my life a living proof of Your word. Let every declaration over my destiny become visible in me until others see and testify that You have spoken.
2. Lord, open my eyes to recognise Your provision, timing, and movements in my life. Deliver me from spiritual blindness that causes missed seasons of visitation.
3. I receive grace to move from survival into covenant abundance. Establish my life in an enduring, generational blessing that is fruitful and not seasonal.
